

CCCI Privacy Policy

Last Updated: July 14, 2017

This privacy policy describes the guidelines that Connecticut Community Care, Inc. (CCCI) follows for information collected during your visit to this website. This policy does not apply to information we collect through other resources. We reserve the right to revise this policy at any time. We will notify you of any material changes to the policy by posting the new policy here and by changing the "Last Updated" date at the top. This policy also does not apply to personal health information covered under HIPAA, if any, for which we have a separate HIPAA privacy policy. Unless otherwise agreed by CCCI in writing, by using this website you accept and agree to be bound and abide by this Privacy Policy and the Terms of Use found at [link], into which this Privacy Policy is incorporated by reference. If you do not want to agree to these this Privacy Policy or the Terms of Use, you must not access or use this website.

1. The Information We Collect

Certain information is automatically collected when you visit our site. The types of information collected when you visit our web pages include your IP address, the date and time our web site was accessed, the page or pages you visited, the time spent on a page, images you accessed, what the web server told you the result was, and what your web browser told the web server was the page that referred to the page you asked for. We may use IP addresses and anonymous demographic information in the aggregate to share with advertisers and market researchers, and to improve the design of our web site to better serve our customers. We do not extract, collect personally identifying information, but reserve the right to do so to investigate unlawful or wrongful conduct, or breaches of this or other web site policies.

Our web sites use cookies where necessary. Cookies are small bits of text that are stored by your web browser. We use cookies to identify you when you return to our web sites in order to simplify logging in and to enhance browsing sessions.

In addition, when you provide us with personal information such as your name, address, or e-mail address, we will receive and store any information you enter on our web site or give us in any other way. For example, if you send us an e-mail, make a donation, or fill out a registration or purchase form, you are transmitting the personal information to us in the form or message.

CCCI does not knowingly collect personal information from children under 13 year of age without parental consent.

For Registrations/Donations

In order to use certain features of this site, we ask that you complete various registration forms for events, seminars and workshops. During this process, you may be asked to give certain contact information such as your name and e-mail address, corporate affiliation and job title, address and phone number. This is used to contact you regarding any questions or in case there is a change in plans regarding an upcoming event.

If you make a donation, we will retain a record of your contribution.

CCCI may use information about you to contact you in an effort to raise money for CCCI or to promote a future seminar or event. This information would be limited to the contact information you provided such as your name, address, and e-mail address.

Purchases

Whenever you place an order via this site for publications, information requested would include name, address, and financial information such as a credit card number and expiration date. This information is used for the purposes of filling customers' orders.

2. Use of Information

Personal information received is used for internal purposes only to provide requested services, process the registration or donation, contact you directly regarding requested services, a registration, or donation, provide you with a newsletter (if you have signed up to receive it), to provide and maintain this website, to provide administrative communications to you, to monitor and collect aggregate website use metrics, to analyze donation trends, to notify you of changes to the website or CCCI's services, to fulfill any other purpose for which the information is provided, as otherwise permitted by this Privacy Policy, and for any other purpose with your consent.

We are not in the business of selling information about our customers. There are circumstances, however, under which we may share information with or allow access to our database by third party vendors, to the extent that those third parties provide us with services that help us operate the website, such as payment processing and website analytics. These third party vendors are contractually bound to use the personal information only in accordance with this policy. There may also be occasions when we are legally required to provide access to our database in order to cooperate with investigations or other legal proceedings. In those instances, the information is provided only for that purpose.

While your individual personal information is protected as outlined above, we reserve the right to use aggregated, anonymous data about our visitors as a group for any business purpose, such as, without limitation, analyzing usage trends. Information we collect may also be used to improve the content of our website, track activity on our site, develop new services, respond to inquiries, and for future fundraising/marketing purposes. If you do not wish to be contacted for fundraising or for any other reason, you may call the Development Office at 860-314-2225 or e-mail development@ctcommunitycare.org.

Due to the nature of electronic communication, we cannot and do not provide any assurance that the contents of your e-mail will not become known or accessible to third parties.

CCCI does not sell, trade, or rent personally identifying information we collect on this site to any third party without your permission.

Web Site Links

CCCI does provide additional links on our web site to resources that our customers may find useful. These links will lead you to sites governed by different privacy policies. Visitors take responsibility for visiting these other web sites and should review their privacy practices as CCCI has no control over information submitted to those sites.

Geographic Application: USA Only

This web site is located in the United States and all information collection and practices are governed by the laws of the United States. While we attempt to protect the personal information of all users of the web site, if you are unsure whether this policy is in conflict with the applicable local rules where you are located, you should not submit your personal information to the web site. In addition, if you are located within the European Union, you should note that your information will be transferred to the United States, the laws of which may be deemed to have inadequate data protection. Visitors to the web site located in countries outside of the United States who submit personal information do thereby consent to the general use of such information as provided in this policy and to the transfer of that information to and/or storage of the information in the United States.

Merger or Sale. In the event that CCCI-related assets are acquired by, or CCCI is merged with, a third-party entity, CCCI reserves the right to transfer as part of the transaction any and all information collected through this website.

Accessing and correcting Information. You may also send us an email at Diane.Edwards@ctcommunitycare.org to request access to, correct, update, or delete any personal information that you have provided to us. We may not accommodate a request to change information if we believe the change would violate any law or legal requirement or cause the information to be incorrect.

Contact Information. Please contact CCCI with any questions about this Privacy Policy or your personal information at:
Diane.Edwards@ctcommunitycare.org.